CPNP UNIVERSITY PRODUCT ADDRESSING NEGATIVE SYMPTOMS IN SCHIZOPHRENIA AVAILABLE

Schizophrenia is a chronic, debilitating disorder in which successful long-term management represents a considerable clinical challenge. However, recent advances in the field are beginning to show promise toward enabling clinicians to render effective, personalized care. This activity will examine diagnostic tools for effective symptom assessment in schizophrenia and evolving theories on the pathogenesis of schizophrenia. The limitations of current antipsychotics will also be discussed, as well as the emergence of novel therapeutics with unique receptor binding profiles with the potential to improve patient outcomes.

This complimentary, knowledge-based course consists of four modules (each valued at .5 contact hours of ACPE credit) authored by psychiatric pharmacists on the following topics:

Module 1: Symptom Classification in Schizophrenia (Deanna Kelly, PharmD, BCPP)

Module 2: Pathophysiology of Schizophrenia: Neurotransmitters, Receptors and Genetics (Roger W. Sommi, PharmD, FCCP, BCPP)

Module 3: Management of Schizophrenia (Steven Stoner, PharmD, BCPP and Beth Winans, PharmD, BCPP)

Module 4: The Future of Schizophrenia Management (Deanna Kelly, PharmD, BCPP)

There is no fee for the activity and participants must successfully complete an exam and evaluation at the end of each module in order to receive 2.0 contact hours (0.20 CEUs) of continuing pharmacy education credit. Take advantage of this great opportunity now.

CPNP'S SUCCESS DRIVEN BY GREAT VOLUNTEERS

CPNP is grateful to the 192 people who have volunteered for the association in some capacity during the committee year that has just concluded.

Volunteer contributions ranged from service on the Board and standing committees/editorial boards to reviewing abstract submissions for our Annual Meeting scientific poster session to assisting with field testing and cut-off scores to facilitating Annual Meeting Roundtables to participating in Annual Meeting student programming. Volunteers provide the manpower and leadership to ensure that CPNP provides current information and worthwhile and expansive products and services. Look for a listing of all MHC authors and peer reviewers in the June edition of the MHC.

Join us in celebrating our 2012-2013 volunteers. All members can contribute as volunteers and expand their professional network and skills. Simply keep your CPNP volunteer profile up to date in My CPNP so that we can call on you as opportunities become available and watch for new opportunities in the Volunteer Opportunities section of My CPNP.
